Dear Parents/Carer

At London Colney Primary School we strongly believe and are very proud of the closeness of the school community here. We believe we are like a family with teachers who are caring and nurturing to the children. We are a school in the 21st Century and believe we make a personal close connection with each child so they want to learn. Boundaries and respect are established through our behaviour policy and daily interactions with each child. Respect is earned by adults in this school and the relationships we build. After much discussion we have decided to be called by our first names rather than by our surnames. Lots of other schools use this approach and countries like Finland, Brazil, Spain and USA teachers are known by their first name.

This fits in with our ethos of the school on our journey to outstanding. We are a modern school with new innovative ideas and therefore next term adults will be known by their first names.

Yours faithfully

Sarah Joyce
